Details: On 11/18/2011, retired California Department of Justice Special Agent Supervisor [REDACTED] advised that he received text messages from his own Google telephone number indicating that he had been "owned".

On 11/18/2011, a YouTube video was posted with the title "#AntiSec Fuck FBI Friday V - Cybercrime Investigator Communications" from the YouTube user account [REDACTED]. The video was 6:03 long and stated the following information, which was also posted as text below the video:

"Greetings Pirates, and welcome to another exciting #FuckFBIFriday release.

As part of our ongoing effort to expose and humiliate our white hat enemies, we targeted a Special Agent Supervisor of the CA Department of Justice in charge of [REDACTED]. We are leaking over 38,000 private emails which contain detailed computer forensics techniques, investigation protocols as well as highly embarrassing personal information. We are confident these gifts will bring smiles to the faces of our black hat brothers and sisters (especially those who have been targeted by these scurvy dogs) while also making a mockery of "security professionals" who whore their "skills" to law enforcement to protect tyrannical corporativism and the status quo we aim to destroy.

Re: 288A-SD-NEW, 12/01/2011

We hijacked two gmail accounts belonging to [redacted] who has been a cop for [redacted] years, dumping his private email correspondence as well as several dozen voicemails and SMS text message logs. While just yesterday [redacted] was having a private BBQ with his [redacted] high computer crime task force friends, we were reviewing their detailed internal operation plans and procedure documents. We also couldn't overlook the boatloads of embarrassing personal information about our cop friend [redacted] We lulzed as we listened to [redacted]

[redacted] We turned on his google web history and watched him [redacted]
[redacted] We also abused his google voice account, making sure [redacted] friends and family knew how hard he was owned. Possibly the most interesting content in his emails are the [redacted]

[redacted] The information in these emails will prove essential to those who want to protect themselves from the techniques and procedures cyber crime investigators use to build cases. If you have ever been busted for computer crimes, you should check to see if your case is being discussed here. There are discussions about [redacted]

These cybercrime investigators are supposed to be the cream of the crop, but we reveal the totality of their ignorance of all matters related to computer security. For months, we have owned several dozen white hat and law enforcement targets-- getting in and out of whichever high profile government and corporate system we please and despite all the active FBI investigations and several billion dollars of funding, they have not been able to stop us or get anywhere near us. Even worse, they bust a few dozen people who are allegedly part of an "anonymous computer hacking conspiracy" but who have only used kindergarten-level [redacted] - this isn't even hacking, but a form of electronic civil disobedience.

We often hear these "professionals" preach about "full-disclosure," but we are sure these people are angrily sending out DMCA takedown notices and serving subpoenas as we speak. They call us criminals, script kiddies, and terrorists, but their entire livelihood depends on us, trying desperately to study our techniques and failing miserably at preventing future attacks. See we're cut from an entirely different kind of cloth. Corporate security professionals like Thomas Ryan and Aaron Barr think they're doing something noble by "leaking" the public email discussion lists of Occupy Wall Street and profiling the "leaders" of Anonymous. Wannabe player haters drop shitty dox and leak partial chat logs about other hackers, doing free work for law enforcement. Then you got people like Peiter "Mudge" Zatko who back in the day used to be old school l0pht/cDc only now to sell out to DARPA going around to hacker conventions encouraging others to work for the feds. Let this be a warning to aspiring white hat "hacker" sellouts and police collaborators: stay out the game or get owned and exposed. You want to keep mass arresting and brutalizing the 99%? We'll have to keep owning your boxes and torrenting your mail spools, plastering your personal information all over teh internets.

Hackers, join us and rise up against our common oppressors - the white hats, the 1%'s 'private' police, the corrupt banks and corporations and make 2011 the year of leaks and revolutions!

We are Anti-Security,
We are the 99%
We do not forgive.
We do not forget.

[redacted] date of birth [redacted] social security account number [redacted] was interviewed at the San Diego Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Also attending the interview were ITCFE [redacted] and IA [redacted]. After being advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and the nature of the interview, [redacted] volunteered the following information:

b6

[redacted] referred to the written statement he had previously submitted and advised that the information provided within was accurate. A copy of the written statement is contained in a 1-A envelope in the file.

On 11/18/2011, at approximately 7:00 am PST, [redacted] began receiving text messages on his cellular telephone from the telephone number associated with his Google Voice account, [redacted]. The text messages were statements similar to "We have you" and "We own you". Additional text messages were received that directed [redacted] to enter an IRC chat room to discuss the matter with the individuals that had taken over [redacted] accounts. [redacted] advised that he did not reply to these messages and does not recall the exact context of the messages or the name of the IRC chat room that they were directing him to. [redacted] stated that he has deleted the text messages and has no record of them.

Shortly after receiving the text messages from the individuals claiming they had compromised his accounts, [redacted] began receiving telephone calls from friends and family members who advised him that they were receiving suspicious messages from him on Facebook. The individuals also advised that there were [redacted] and other out of character posts on his Facebook feed.

By noon [redacted] had recovered and locked down all of his accounts. Text messages continued arriving on his cellular telephone that appeared to be from his Google Voice telephone number. Fearing that his Google account was still compromised, [redacted] deleted the Google account.

Following the recovery of his accounts, [redacted] received a text message that stated that it wasn't over and a text message that made a reference to the tough economic times and financial

One of the consequences of rooting the telephone was that other programs that normally would not have access to the files "Shared Preferences" and "Accounts.db" could now access those files. The files contain information such as [REDACTED] from the telephone. A few days prior to the individuals advising [REDACTED] that he had been compromised [REDACTED] had downloaded and installed a program called "atorrent" from the Android store. This program allowed a user to download torrent files onto your cellular telephone. [REDACTED] stated that he used the program several times to test it, downloading music and a movie.

On 12/31/2011, an individual posted information regarding the compromise of the California State Law Enforcement Association (www.cslea.com) on www.pastebin.com. The information provided an explanation for the attack, e-mail communications from CSLEA personnel discussing the security of their website, as well as name, address, password, and credit card information for individuals related to CSLEA. Additionally, the message stated that the compromise of CSLEA was "how Special Agent [redacted] at the California DOJ [redacted] Unit got humiliated last month".

1. Hello comrades and thanks for joining us for the final phase of our cross
2. country hacker crime spree, our contribution to pr0j3kt m4yh3m. We're still
3. preparing the torrents, mail spools, as well as our final txt zine release which
4. will surely bring humiliation and embarrassment to many white hats and
5. sysadmins. But this New Years Eve, we bringing yall some party favors to keep
6. you raging all night. Did you remember a month ago when the mayors and piggies
7. across the US conspired to attack protesters in public parks? We sure do, so we
8. have been planning a retaliatory raid of our own. Bring it, NDAA. Bring it,
9. SOPA. We are snipers with one hell of a scope! Takin out a cop or two, they 26.

27. Most everybody already knows that we don't like police very much. Shit, just
28. about everybody hates them, everybody except for the rich and powerful who
29. depend on their protection. But which state got the most blood on their hands?
30. Well we already owned pigs in Texas and Arizona, and many many others; guess its
31. time to ride on the California police.
32.
33. From the murder of Oscar Grant, the repression of the occupation movement, the
34. assassination of George Jackson in San Quinten prison, the prosecution of our
35. anonymous comrades in San Jose, and the dehumanizing conditions in California
36. jails and prisons today, California police have a notorious history of brutality
37. and therefore have been on our hitlist for a good minute now.
38.
39. So we went ahead and owned the California State Law Enforcement Association
40. (CSLEA.COM), defacing their website and giving out live backdoors. We dumped a
41. few of their mail spools and forum databases, and we did get a few laughs out of 47.

48. "But wait! Cops are people too! Part of the 99%!" orly? When these soulless
49. traitors voluntarily chose to cross the picket line and side with the bosses and
50. bureaucrats, they burned all bridges with working class. As the bootboys for

53. of us already know about the role of police in society when they violently
54. attacked protesters occupying public parks. Now it's time to turn the table and
55. start firing shots off in the right direction. Problem, officer?
56.
57. Interestingly, CSLEA members have discussed some of our previous hacks against
58. police targets, raising concern for the security of their own systems. However
59. [redacted] deliberately made some rather amusing lies as to their security. He
60. repeatedly denied having been hacked up until web hosts at [redacted] showed him
61. some of the backdoors and other evidence of having dumped their databases. We
62. were reading their entire email exchange including when they realized that
63. credit card and password information was stored in cleartext. This is about the
64. time [redacted] changed his email password, but not before receiving a copy of the
65. 'shopper' table which contained all the CCs. Too late, [redacted] 66.
67. In all fairness, they did make an effort to secure their systems after discovery
68. of the breach. [redacted]
69. [redacted]
70. [redacted]
71. [redacted]
72. [redacted]
73. [redacted]
74.
75. But we still had [redacted] and were stealthily checking out the
76. many other websites on the server, while also helping ourselves to thousands of
77. police usernames and passwords (it's how Special Agent [redacted] at the 78. California DOJ [redacted] Unit got humiliated last month). For two months, we
79. passed around their private password list amongst our black hat comrades like it
80. was a fat blunt of the dank shit, and now it's time to dump that shit for the

"Greetings Pirates, and welcome to another exciting #FuckFBIFriday release.

As part of our ongoing effort to expose and humiliate our white hat enemies, we targeted a Special Agent Supervisor of the CA Department of Justice in charge of [REDACTED]. We are leaking over 38,000 private emails which contain detailed computer forensics techniques, investigation protocols as well as highly embarrassing personal information. We are confident these gifts will bring smiles to the faces of our black hat brothers and sisters (especially those who have been targeted by these scurvy dogs) while also making a mockery of "security professionals" who whore their "skills" to law enforcement to protect tyrannical corporativism and the status quo we aim to destroy.

We hijacked two gmail accounts belonging to [redacted] who has been a cop for [redacted] years, dumping his private email correspondence as well as several dozen voicemails and SMS text message logs. While just yesterday [redacted] was having a private BBQ with his [redacted] friends, we were reviewing their detailed internal operation plans and procedure documents. We also couldn't overlook the boatloads of embarrassing personal information about our cop friend [redacted] We lulzed as we listened to angry voicemails from [redacted]

[redacted] We turned on his google web history and watched him look up [redacted] [redacted] We also abused his google voice account, making sure [redacted] friends and family knew how hard he was owned. Possibly the most interesting content in his emails are the [redacted] internal email list archives (2005-2011) which [redacted]

[redacted] The information in these emails will prove essential to those who want to protect themselves from the techniques and procedures cyber crime investigators use to build cases. If you have ever been busted for computer crimes, you should check to see if your case is being discussed here. There are discussions about [redacted]

[redacted]

These cybercrime investigators are supposed to be the cream of the crop, but we reveal the totality of their ignorance of all matters related to computer security. For months, we have owned several dozen white hat and law enforcement targets-- getting in and out of whichever high profile government and corporate system we please and despite all the active FBI investigations and several billion dollars of funding, they have not been able to stop us or get anywhere near us. Even worse, they bust a few dozen people who are allegedly part of an "anonymous computer hacking conspiracy" but who have only used kindergarten-level [redacted] this isn't even hacking, but a form of electronic civil disobedience.

b7E

We often hear these "professionals" preach about "full-disclosure," but we are sure these people are angrily sending out DMCA takedown notices and serving subpoenas as we speak. They call us criminals, script kiddies, and terrorists, but their entire livelihood depends on us, trying desperately to study our techniques and failing miserably at preventing future attacks. See we're cut from an entirely different kind of cloth. Corporate security professionals like Thomas Ryan and Aaron Barr think they're doing something noble by "leaking" the public email discussion lists of Occupy Wall Street and profiling the "leaders" of Anonymous. Wannabe player haters drop shitty dox and leak partial chat logs about other hackers, doing free work for law enforcement. Then you got people like Peiter "Mudge" Zatko who back in the day used to be old school l0pht/cDc only now to sell out to DARPA going around to hacker conventions encouraging others to work for the feds. Let this be a warning to aspiring white hat "hacker" sellouts and police collaborators: stay out the game or get owned and exposed. You want to keep mass arresting and brutalizing the 99%? We'll have to keep owning your boxes and torrenting your mail spools, plastering your personal information all over teh internets.

Hackers, join us and rise up against our common oppressors - the white hats, the 1%'s 'private' police, the corrupt banks and corporations and make 2011 the year of leaks and revolutions!

We are Anti-Security,
We are the 99%
We do not forgive.

Statement regarding the hijacking of my personal accounts:

On Friday 11-18-2011, at approximately 0700 hours I was getting in my car and began receiving text messages on my phone from my own Google telephone number of [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] This number is associated with my [REDACTED] account of [REDACTED]. The messages stated that in essence, the senders had taken over my account and that they "owned" me. The messages were also directing me to a specific chat room (I already deleted the text) to contact them, otherwise they were going to post my email and personal information all over the Internet. I ignored them and they continued to harass me with incoming text messages. I checked via my smart Android based cell phone, and immediately noticed I no longer had access to my Google account, my Facebook account that was associated with the same email address, and the yahoo account that was linked to my [REDACTED]. The perpetrators continued to prod me to go to the chat room with threats of releasing the information, but I continued to ignore them.

b7C

When I arrived home at approximately 0730 hours, I went onto the Internet from what I believed to be a secure computer and via the specific providers websites followed their online protocols for recovering compromised accounts. It took approximately 1 hour, but I was successful in gaining access to all the compromised accounts and changed the passwords several times to prevent the intruders from following the same protocols. In the Google account, they harassed many of the contacts contained in my phone book with a variety of text messages. They posted personal emails from the email accounts around the Internet and made bold statements about compromising a Department of Justice [REDACTED]. Some of the email in my sent folder included [REDACTED]

b6

[REDACTED] They logged into my Facebook account and deleted most of my photos, changed configuration settings, posted numerous offensive comments and personal messages to various friends, as well as impersonated me in various chats.

I received a phone call from a Huffington Post reporter (didn't get his name but seemed legitimate, [REDACTED]) at approximately 1400 hours the same day. He was excited when he initially called, like he was at the forefront of a big breaking story. He asked if I wanted to comment on the compromise that happened to me and told me he learned of it from people in a chat room. It appears he thought I was going to be some high ranking manager of a computer crimes unit and there were going to be damning things in the data they stole. I quickly deflated his enthusiasm as I told him [REDACTED]

b6
b7C

[REDACTED] and that whatever they got was personal, but not embarrassing and I was not going to give in to their threats and intimidation by contacting them. I further told him that in the overall scheme of things, I was really nobody and it was insignificant to terrorize me for their cause.

Following my recovery of the accounts, the perpetrators texted me and said it was not over yet. They made a comment about how tough economic times were and I should beware of my financial status. I made a check of my assorted banking and credit account that I deal with online and discovered a fraudulent charge made that morning to Ritz camera for approximately $896.95. The purchase was made with my [REDACTED] and was scheduled to ship to an old mailing address at [REDACTED]. I contacted [REDACTED] and they are cancelling the transaction and the account. There are no other know discrepancies at this time and have since place a credit block on my personal information.

They continued to harass me via text and said they were releasing my telephone number to 150,000 followers on twitter, and hoped I wasn't busy. I received a few calls, but did only answered a few just to see what the callers had to say. Most just made ignorant comments and hung up. I disabled the gmail account, to avoid a backlog of voicemail as my phone is [REDACTED].

[REDACTED] I believe this tactic, along with not acknowledging them in the text or chat rooms frustrated them and kept them from calling or texting too much. There were a couple of texts from [REDACTED] that appeared to be sympathetic to me, wishing me well and hoping the hackers would be brought to justice. I ignored them as well, suspicious that the perpetrators were just testing to see if I was receiving their other harassment texts.

I received only a few additional phone calls from mysterious numbers and harassment texts over the weekend.

I desire prosecution.

Synopsis: To Close Captioned Case.

Details: Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA) [REDACTED] and Special Agent (SA) [REDACTED] have discussed captioned investigation and its status on numerous occasions. On March 16, 2012, AUSA [REDACTED] inquired via email if captioned investigation could be closed. SA [REDACTED] advised that since there are no good subject internet protocol (IP) addresses and no good follow-up leads or information from current sources, captioned investigation should be closed.

The evidence obtained in this investigation did not derive enough probable cause to result in the identification of a subject for a prosecutable offense. On April 18, 2012, SA [REDACTED] received a letter from the United States Attorney's Office stating that their office has closed the investigation. The abovementioned letter has been attached and is made a part of this document.

On April 27, 2012, SA [REDACTED] returned the hard drives provided by Imageshack as evidence in captioned case back to the victim company.

RE: ImageShack Intrusion

Dear Special Agent [Redacted]

This letter is to confirm that my office has closed the investigation into the ImageShack intrusion by a group known as Anti-Sec. Based on our conversations, you have conducted an exhaustive investigation and have been unable to identify the individual responsible for the intrusion. If you find new evidence, please resubmit the case for prosecution.

I appreciate all of your work on the case. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions. I can be reached at [Redacted]

Request:

Refer to the final Report of Examination for information on services requested. This report relates to the imaging processes only.

Summary of Examination:

Digital evidence media items were imaged to media to be retained as archives, and to staging media for future forensic examination by an assigned forensic examiner.

Details of Examination:

Prior to conducting any forensic process, I reviewed the legal authority, presented as a "Consent to Search" form.

Upon submission to the SVRCL, each submitted item was inventoried. As part of the inventory process, each item was assigned a unique SVRCFL bar code, and was entered into the SVRCFL evidence system. Where appropriate, make, model, and serial number for each imaged item was recorded, and each item was digitally photographed.

To preserve the original evidence and minimize any risk of damage to the original, an exact copy of the user-accessible data located on the evidentiary items was created onto staging media. (The exact copy will hereafter be referred to as an image.) The images were created using approved and appropriate forensic imaging software to write to forensically clean staging media prepared for use in an examination. Unless otherwise noted, the original evidence was write-protected using a hardware-write protection device to prevent any unintentional or accidental destruction or modification of the original evidence. An archive copy was also made using approved and appropriate software.

The staging media will be used in the examination phase to further satisfy the request, while the archive copy will be retained in the SVRCFL evidence control room in order to preserve the evidence should it be required in the future for authentication or court processes.

b7E

 All the original evidence was returned to the SVRCFL evidence control room.

The following processes were performed during imaging of the original evidence:

- Physical Examination of Evidentiary items
- Write Protect Media
- Hardware Geometry and System Information
- Create Image

Disposition of Evidence:

All original evidence items returned to the SVRCFL evidence control room. All DE items will be retained in the SVRCFL evidence control room for a period of five years in order to preserve the evidence in the event additional forensic processes or legal proceedings require its use. After this time, the DE will be returned to the requestor's agency for disposition.

This imaging of this case is complete. The staging media will be given to an examiner for additional forensic processing.

Synopsis: To Open Case and subfiles.

Details: On October 8, 2009, Special Agent (SA) [REDACTED] met with employees of IMAGESHACK located at 236 North Santa Cruz Avenue, Los Gatos, California, 95030, to discuss two recent computer intrusions of IMAGESHACK servers. IMAGESHACK is a company which provides internet image hosting.

IMAGESHACK advised SA [REDACTED] that the first computer intrusion occurred on July 10, 2009 at approximately 7 pm Pacific Standard Time (PST). A group by the name of ANTI-SEC gained access to one of the company database servers. The server the hacker(s) accessed [REDACTED] for IMAGESHACK customers to include [REDACTED]

Synopsis: Request SOS [REDACTED] assistance on captioned case.

Details: Writer requests SOS [REDACTED] assistance due to the overwhelming amount of time-sensitive data being provided by a CHS. This data often contains [REDACTED]

b7D

[REDACTED] Due to the amount, and frequency, of the data, it is not possible to provide timely updates to the affected FBI field offices and law enforcement agencies while also addressing current CIP National Security and CIP Criminal case load.

It is anticipated that SOS [REDACTED] assistance will consist of reading email, watching videos, and conducting online research regarding CIP Criminal hacktivism. SOS [REDACTED] assistance is requested to assist C-4 Cyber in mitigating hacktivism threats which are presently ongoing in FBI San Antonio's AOR and in other FBI Field Office AORs. CHS reporting is arriving daily, but becomes stale if not utilized immediately to assist in preventing or responding to CIP Criminal Hacktivism threats. The duration of the captioned case is unknown and will be commensurate with the operational life of the CHS.

aka [REDACTED] ANTISEC;
TEXAS COMMISSION ON JAIL STANDARDS (TCJS.STATE.TX.US) - VICTIM
COMPUTER INTRUSIONS - CRIMINAL MATTERS

Synopsis: Case update and investigative plan.

Details: Writer currently has no CHS coverage of the subject of the captioned case and no more open-source leads. A lead was sent to [REDACTED] RA, [REDACTED] Division, to attempt to physically locate subject at his last known physical address. To date, [REDACTED] RA has been unable to locate the subject.

b7D

[REDACTED] RA has a CHS that may be able to gain access to the subject online and writer has requested that this be attempted. Writer has also requested [REDACTED] RA to continue to attempt to locate the subject. Writer will work with [REDACTED] to provide any needed information or Grand Jury subpoenas.

Upon locating the subject, whether online or physically, writer will use all means available to observe the online activity, especially the IP addresses used, by the subject. It is anticipated that this will enable writer to link past known attacks to the subject beyond a reasonable doubt.
